

Chrysanthemum

Although it was selected in 1869, chrysanthemums were already displayed on the imperial carts and costumes more than 800 years ago as Emperor Gotoba (1180-1239) loved them.

People have always loved beauty and elegance of Chrysanthemum since old times. It was said that Chrysanthemum has power of long life. They were also used as medicine.

Chrysanthemums are popular as an offering of flowers, family crests, decorative topping on food, etc., in Japan.

In Autumn, chrysanthemum exhibitions are held throughout Japan. Cultivators compete their technique and flowers' beauty.

There are also chrysanthemum dolls festivals. They are life-sized handcrafted figures with clothes made of chrysanthemum blossoms and leaves.

Chrysanthemums were brought to Japan from China around 8th century. There are over 5,000 varieties of them and many bloom in Autumn.

The chrysanthemum is used in the crest of the Emperor and the Imperial Household, depicting a chrysanthemum with sixteen open petals.

Edible Chrysanthemum and sweets

Some chrysanthemums are edible. They are usually put on food as decorative toppings. They are also used for salad, soup, Tempura (deep fried dish), sushi, tea, etc.

They say that edible chrysanthemums contain a lot of vitamin and beta-carotene. However, excessive intake should be avoided.

Autumn sweets appear in stores as soon as there is a faint chill in the air, such as chrysanthemum-shaped sweet.

They go well with a cup of hot green tea. We are looking forward to Autumn coming.
